By ROBERT EUNSON
PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP). — Amid reports of new fighting on the uneasy Korean truce line, the U.N. Command warned today that Communist North Korea must curb its "bloodthirsty marauders" immediately or it will invite its own destruction.

Maj. Gen. George H. Cloud, senior delegate from the U.N. Command on the armistice commission, charged the North Koreans with deliberate, malicious assaults in U.N.-controlled territory which have killed three Americans and wounded a fourth since July 29.

North Korea brushed aside the charges as "fabrications" in one of the hottest exchanges in 10 years of armistice commission meetings.

Earlier Cloud said Communist troops had intruded into the U.N. Command portion of the demilitarized zone at 4:30 a.m. today and fresh firing had broken out between American and Communist troops.

Cloud said the clash had taken place about 500 yards south of the military demarcation line running through the center of the demilitarized zone. He did not elaborate and mentioned no casualties.

An American officer told newsmen outside the armistice meeting that he had thrown eight hand grenades in the latest reported clash. He said an American patrol had been flanked in the fighting and forced to withdraw.

From this officer's account, it appeared there were no casualties on either side.

Cloud, a Marine, said 50 Soviet-made cartridge cases had been found at the scene along with an unexploded Soviet-type grenade. Two hand grenades exploded, he said.

The U.N. side called the armistice commission meeting to accuse the Communists of a series of provocations that began July 29 when a U.N. jeep was ambushed in U.N. territory. Two Americans were killed and a third wounded.

The next day a fourth American soldier and a South Korean policeman were killed in a clash directly south of the first ambush. Four North Korean soldiers were slain in this encounter.

Integration Disputes Go to Court

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two integration disputes have landed in the courts—one a move to block expansion of a predominantly Negro high school, the other an attempt to halt picketing at an all-white housing tract.

A suit filed in Superior Court Thursday seeks an injunction to prevent a proposed $1 million expansion program at Jordan High School by the Los Angeles Board of Education.

The action contends the enlargement of Jordan would perpetuate its racial imbalance "now 99 per cent Negro, while South Gate High School, 1½ miles away is 97 per cent white."

The suit was brought in behalf of two Jordan students, Mary Ellen Crawford and Anita Watkins, by the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the United Civil Rights Committee. The latter is an association of union, religious and other groups.

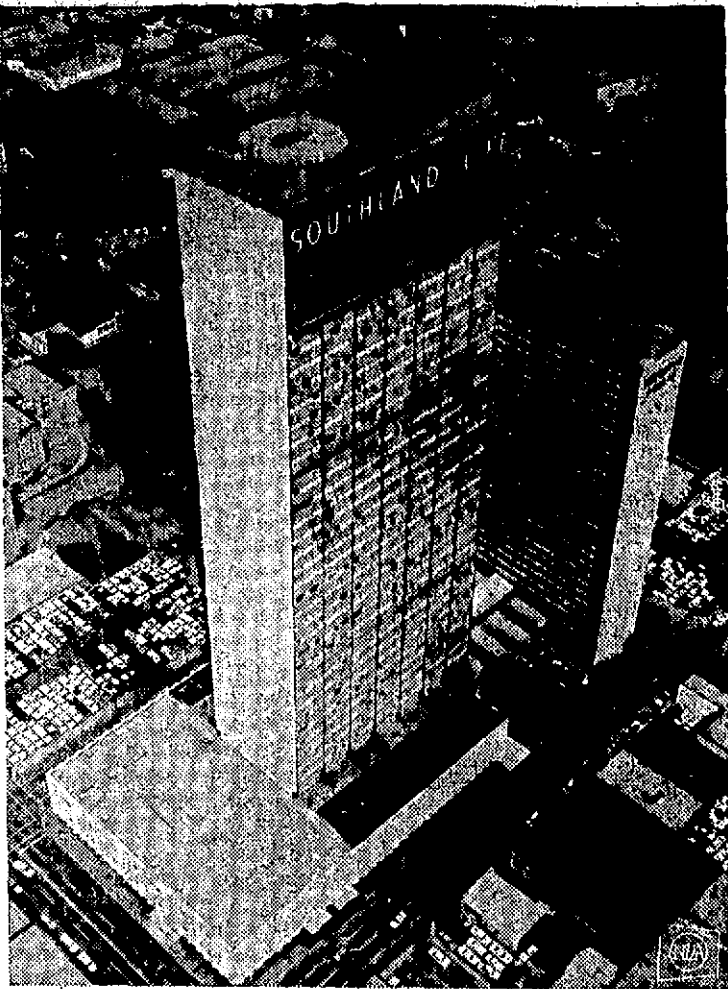

Three other suits were filed seeking temporary injunctions against picketing by pro-integration and anti-integration demonstrators at the Southwood Riviera Royale housing tract in suburban Torrance.

The tract has been the scene of mass demonstrations, most of them sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality which contends that tract owner Don Wilson has refused to sell houses in the tract to Negroes. He denies it.

Other groups, some of them anti-integration, have joined in the picketing.

Arkansas a Dismal Picture of Progress, Census Shows, State Behind Rest of Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A report released this week by the U.S. Census Bureau paints a dismal picture of progress in Arkansas as compared with the rest of the nation.

But the report was based on the 1960 census and does not include the last three years, a period in which most state officials feel great progress has been made in both population and income.

The report showed that Arkansas fell behind the nation in population growth after the late 1800s. The state's population doubled from 1870 to 1890 then began a gradual tapering off, reaching a peak in 1930 and beginning a slight downward trend in 1940, the report shows. This occurred while the population of the rest of the nation continued steadily upward.

The report indicates that slightly more than half of the state's population in 1960 belonged to the blue-collar working class while roughly one-eighth were farm workers and the remainder was white-collar workers.

On the national level, half the population belonged to the blue-collar work force, one-sixteenth were farm workers and the rest were white-collar workers.

The report said that nearly half of Arkansas' families earned less than $3,000 yearly in 1960, while in the South this group represented 33 per cent of the population and only 22 per cent for the nation.

By the same measure, only six per cent of the Arkansas population earned $10,000 per year or more compared to a national level of 15 per cent.

Educationally, Arkansas ranked behind the nation. About seven per cent of the population completed one or more years of college with only five per cent completing four years. Nationally the percentages were nine and eight, respectively.

The report also indicated that the state had "proportionately more people over 65 than the nation and about 28 per cent of the men over 65 were in the state's labor force."

Nationally about 33 per cent of the men over 65 were still in the labor force.

The state's non-white population decreased about three per cent from 1940 to 1960, about the same decrease as experienced by the entire South. Nationally, the non-white population increased from about 11 per cent in 1940 to 13 per cent in 1960.

Arkansas' population moved from rural to urban areas between 1950 and 1960 at a greater rate than in the nation as a whole. Approximately 68 per cent of the state's population was rural in 1950 while 63 per cent was rural in 1960. The nation's rural population decreased only about three per cent for the same period, the report said.

The report, issued in a series of charts and graphs was the first of its kind prepared by the Census Bureau.

Believes Americans Involved

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's vice president voiced suspicion today that Americans are involved in the Buddhist anti-government campaign and said he has asked U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr. to investigate.

Vice President Nguyen Ngoc Tho was asked at a news conference whether the Saigon government had any direct evidence of foreign intervention in Buddhist problems.

"Actually, I shouldn't say," Tho said, "but there have been rumors of such things. I have asked Ambassador Nolting to verify if the rumors are justified."

Nolting said he could not comment on the remark until he had seen an official transcript of the conference.

High Vietnamese government officials have frequently charged that Americans were interfering in domestic affairs, including plots against the government. The United States has repeatedly denied it.

Tho noted that the government has offered to set up a commission of Buddhist leaders and government officials for on-the-spot investigation of complaints.

Buddhist leaders earlier this week rejected any more conferences with the government until their key demands have been met. One of these demands is that the government publicly accept blame for several recent bloody incidents.

Undesirables in Teaching a Problem

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An undesirable teacher must either be corrected or dismissed for the good of the students, Little Rock school Supt. Floyd W. Parsons told the Arkansas School Administrators Association Thursday.

A teacher is seldom dismissed for one shortcoming, Parsons said. He named the chief reasons for firing as undesirable personality traits, inability to maintain discipline, incompetency, lack of co-operation and flagrant disregard for school policies.

"Administrators must exercise great care lest they falsely accuse an employee of failing to meet the standards required," Parsons said. "Reasons for dismissal should be clear-cut and all evidence should be substantiated and documented where documentation is possible."

The association winds up its summer conference today. The administrators are discussing ethical codes, teacher employment and dismissal problems and related subjects.

9.2% More in State Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — State and local governments collected $42.7 billion in taxes in 1962, the Census Bureau said today. The figure was 9.5 per cent higher than the preceding year.

The total compares to $28.8 billion collected in 1957. The Census Bureau said state and local taxes had increased at an annual rate of 7.8 per cent from 1957 to 1961.

State taxes increased from $19.1 billion to $21.1 billion and local collections rose from $19.8 billion to $21.5 billion.

About 45 per cent of state and local taxes come from assessments on property of all kinds. Other large categories include sales, gasoline and income taxes.

Motor Court Warned by Labor Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board has ordered the Downtowner Motor Inn of Little Rock to stop discouraging union activity and to re-hire two discharged workers with back pay.

The board ruled that the motel had engaged in unfair labor practices last year in an effort to discourage employees from supporting Local 200 of the Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union.

The company's attorney, Nowell H. Fowler of Memphis, said the NLRB ruling probably would be appealed to the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

And Earl W. DeHart of Memphis, another company attorney, filed an unfair labor practice charge against union, charging that it coerced employees since July 15 in their right to engage in or not to engage in union activities. He declined to elaborate on his charges.

The union lost a labor election at the motel July 12, 1962 but it was set aside by the NLRB and the union won the second election last Oct. 30.

A contract has not yet been signed. Twenty-four employees held a one-day strike March 13 to protest what they called the company's refusal to bargain. Some employees have continued to picket the motel.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked the motel last week to let them join in negotiations, but the company refused, said Dr. Jerry Jewell, president of the Little Rock NAACP branch.

5.1 Million Chicks Started

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas producers started 5,161,000 broiler chicks during the week ended July 27, the Crop Reporting Service estimated today, one per cent below the figure for the previous week.

Of the total placements in the state, 4,466,000 chicks were hatched in Arkansas and 695,000 came from other states. There were 230,000 broiler chicks shipped out of the state during the week.

The estimated total of 6,225,000 eggs set for broiler-type chicks in Arkansas during the week was two per cent above the previous week.

Officials Leave for Historic Treaty Signing

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home fly to Moscow today for historic nuclear test ban signing ceremonies and vital exploratory talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The foreign policy chiefs were accompanied by parties of top advisers and specialists in East-West relations. Rusk's party also includes a bipartisan delegation of top Senate leaders.

Among the array of international figures expected for the signing ceremonies Monday afternoon will be U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant. He has been invited to fly to Moscow to witness the signing.

The ceremonies in the Grand Kremlin Palace will be broadcast over a Soviet-bloc television hookup and to Western Europe. They will be followed by a lavish reception in the Kremlin at which Khrushchev is expected to preside.

Rusk and Home are expected to meet with Khrushchev for talks on future steps in relaxing cold-war tensions after the signing.

Rusk, as the first American secretary of state to visit Moscow since the late George C. Marshall was here in 1947, has been invited to stay on for a few days at Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's guest.

Khrushchev was reported to be planning to invite Rusk and his wife to visit the premier's Black Sea vacation home. But the U.S. Embassy said it knew nothing of such a plan and that it tentatively had scheduled a sightseeing trip to Leningrad for Wednesday.

The talks are expected to concentrate on the nonaggression pact Khrushchev wants NATO and the Warsaw pact alliances to sign.

French President Charles de Gaulle's refusal to sign such a treaty appeared to doom this project. But President Kennedy and W. Averell Harriman, under-secretary of state for political affairs, who negotiated the test ban, have indicated that a way could be found around the Paris road-block.

Some Western observers here expect Rusk to sound out Khrushchev on the possibility of settling for a formal declaration of non-aggression made independently by both military alliances.

Safety Lens Eyeglasses Are Now Providing Incomparable Protection for Your Eyesight

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Have you noticed in a group picture lately that nearly every adult is wearing eyeglasses. It is a reasonably safe assumption that those pictured without glasses have a pair tucked away in a pocket or purse and don them occasionally, or perhaps often.

In former years the Oriental was the only type who was always thought of with "specs," but more and more the Westerner, too, has had to risk the nickname "Four Eyes." Fortunately, it is no longer a form of appearance stigma to wear eyeglasses.

They have been improved to such an extent that manufacturers of frames are actually in competition for the most fashionable ones. The shape as well as the extent of decoration varies. So much for the way the glasses look to others. The most important thing is still the assistance in seeing given to the wearer.

Through information received from the County Health Nurse Mrs. Inez Turner, and temporarily misplaced until now, we learned that safety glasses are as much in demand by adults as by children in the present day. Safety glasses, tough, shatter-resistant lenses mounted in sturdy, flame-resistant frames can do much to reduce the needless toll of ravaged vision from the 345,000 eye accidents that befall Americans every year.

Examples of such accidents are that of an Iowa farmer's gripping a pair of pliers which slipped and struck his glasses, shattering them; a Pennsylvania construction worker requiring surgery after a whipping cable smashed his glasses; and an Oklahoma baseball player blinded in one eye when a ball hit his glasses and broke them. Safety glasses would have saved them from damaged and destroyed eyesight.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness has endorsed the absolute use of safety eyewear for children and adults now wearing regular glasses; for persons with defective sight, particularly those with but one good eye; and for all participating in recreation or hobbies which involve hazards to the eyes.

Experts on the subject are quoted as saying, "Safety lens spectacles provide incomparable protection for eyesight, well worth the nominal additional charge over the cost of ordinary glasses."

Mankind has fashioned false teeth, artificial limbs, and even a mechanical heart which works temporarily, but no one has created eyes that work except the Lord. You see how important they are. Take care of your eyes.

Murder Charge in Melon Patch Death

GORDO, Ala. (AP)—First degree murder charges have been filed against an 80-year-old man in the shooting of a teen-ager in a watermelon patch.

Pickens County officers said the man, John D. Higdon of Gordo, would be given a preliminary hearing Monday.

Phillip Howell, 17, was hit in the chest and throat by a blast from a shotgun while he and a friend were in Higdon's watermelon patch, officers said.

McGehee Voting Is Postponed

MCGHEE, Ark. (AP)—Voting on proposed Desha County bond issues has been postponed until two hospital projects can be combined into one ballot question.

The election originally was set for Aug. 20. County Judge J. L. Erwin said he would reschedule it in early September.

The ballot as originally planned would have carried four proposals — construction of a new county hospital at McGehee, enlargement of the existing county hospital at Dumas, repair of the courthouse at Arkansas City and construction of a new jail at Arkansas City.

Backers of the hospital proposals feared that separate votes might create ill feeling between McGehee and Dumas if one proposal passed and the other failed. Erwin said his legal advisors had told him that the state Supreme Court would have to rule on validity of the combined hospital bond issue. Backers of the hospitals agreed to underwrite the $2,000 cost of a suit to bring the matter before the court.

Turncoat Returning to America

By GEOFFREY HO

HONG KONG (AP) — Korean War turncoat Lowell D. Skinner, 32, of Akron, Ohio, said today that anti-Russian feeling is much stronger in Red China than anti-American sentiment.

The withdrawal of Soviet technical and economic aid dealt the Chinese Communists a severe blow, the former Army corporal told a news conference.

Skinner was one of 21 American prisoners of war who refused to be repatriated in 1953 after the Korean armistice. He arrived in Hong Kong Thursday on his way to the United States.

Skinner attributed the Communists' failure in their "great leap forward" program of rapid industrialization to the withdrawal of Russian aid, natural calamities, poor management and inexperience of party cadres in the communes.

Skinner said he decided to return to America because of the lack of individual freedom in Red China.

"I did not expect the living standard to be so low and the people's freedom of movement so restricted," he said.

Skinner said he did not regret his decision to stay in China.

"I saw this a good opportunity to see a great country and to learn the Chinese language and I accomplished both," he said. "I don't think I lost anything."

Outlook Cloudy for Kennedy's Rights Bill

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's civil rights program has passed the first turn in the long, winding road toward enactment—completion of lengthy hearings by two congressional committees.

The committees are expected to start writing their bills soon. The prospect in the House is that the floor battle over civil rights legislation won't be joined until after Labor Day. The outlook in the Senate is even cloudier.

The House Judiciary Committee concluded three months of hearings on the President's seven-point program Friday while the Senate Commerce Committee was winding up five weeks of hearings on one plank—a bill to prohibit racial discrimination in places of public accommodations.

The accommodations section was separated from the rest of the program in the Senate in an effort for quicker action than could be expected from the Senate Judiciary Committee, long the burial ground for civil rights measures. The committee has been holding hearings on the other points with no sign of a wind-up in view.

Commerce Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., will decide when his group is to start its closed deliberations. Magnuson, who has been ill, is expected to set an early date.

On the House side, Judiciary Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said his group would not start its work on the legislation for a couple of weeks. And the word from House leaders was that the tax reduction and revision bill would be brought up for action ahead of civil rights.

When the Commerce Committee began its hearings on July 1, its members were told by the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, that passage of the accommodations measure is imperative "to remove a daily insult to Negroes."

Opponents, including five Southern governors, attacked the bill as unconstitutional, as an invasion of property rights and as likely to worsen rather than improve race relations.

The public accommodations measure would apply to hotels, motels, theaters, restaurants, retail stores and other privately owned businesses serving the general public and having a substantial effect on interstate commerce.

The measure refers to the 14th Amendment's guarantee of equal protection under law, but relies chiefly on the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce.

Two Seek to Enter Spa Schools

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The Hot Springs Board of Education said today that it had received applications for transfer of two Negro students to all-white elementary schools for the 1963-1964 school year.

School Board President Harry Howard said the applications probably would be discussed prior to registration on Aug. 22.

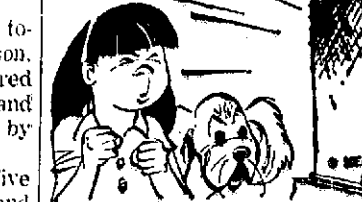

In a prepared statement, the board said the two students were enrolled at Goldstein Elementary School, an all-Negro school.

A spokesman for the Hot Springs chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said the NAACP was aware of the applications and would grant any assistance necessary to "insure that the constitutional rights of the parents and children involved are honored."

The NAACP, in a letter to the Hot Springs school board last month, requested desegregation of the schools.

A request was made last year for integration, but parents were told they had filed a request too late. Hot Springs has an integrated auto mechanics class which is held at the school administration building.

Electrical Co-ops Come a Long Way

By J. C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—In rural Arkansas in the 1930s two scenes were common—the coal oil lamp and what was then a proud product of progress, but now a byword of electric cooperatives—the old home power plant.

It was a long way from the weak, but dependable old wick lamps to the wonderful, but at best unpredictable little home power plant that provided power for flickering light bulbs.

It was a longer road yet to the Rural Electrification Association—conceived by Franklin D. Roosevelt one day while bathing at Warm Springs, Ga. before he became president.

Out of Roosevelt's discontent with the quality and expense of power at Warm Springs came his idea for the REA, a public works type project originally intended to loan money to areas that were willing to bootstrap themselves out of the depression.

When the REA came into being in 1935, Carl E. Bailey stumped Arkansas as a gubernatorial candidate promising that the state would take advantage of the program.

In 1937 when the Arkansas General Assembly passed an act to enable cooperative groups in the state to borrow REA money, less than two per cent of rural areas had electricity.

Today, 18 Arkansas electric co-operatives have been assigned, under a law that is the model of the nation, 62 per cent of the geographic area of the state—most of it "rural."

The word rural is misleading in that by U.S. Census standards, about two thirds of Arkansans live in such areas. One leading encyclopedia list only 11 urban communities in Arkansas, on the basis of population of above 20,000 persons.

This puts such economic centers of Arkansas as Blytheville, El Dorado, Hot Springs and Jonesboro in the fringe of the "rural" areas, since all have from 20,000 to 26,000 population.

Texarkana, Ark., with 19,788 persons, would be "rural."

Yet, this thriving city is the base of the Southwest Arkansas Electric Co-operative Corporation, Inc., with 2,685 miles of distribution lines serving 10,125 members. It has an annual payroll of $217,372.

Since 1937, the cooperative movement has spread into many economic areas of Arkansas.

The most simple rundown would show this economic pattern:

A cooperative is formed, money is borrowed from the REA at a low rate of interest, distribution lines built, power bought and customers served.

The customer buys wiring, fixtures and appliances.

Moore said Mrs. Nelda Sasser, other of four children, was charged June 18 before Peoples with embezzling $2,477 and making false entries in Securities Bank records from January 1961 through December 1962. She was released on personal recognizance bond, Moore said.

Mrs. Sasser worked in the savings department of the Securities Bank and later resigned. Vail was a teller but was not working at the bank when the charge was filed.

According to historical findings the first white settlement in Arkansas was made at Arkansas Post in 1686, by the DeTonti expedition.

41 Jailed in Chicago Race Rioting

By JOHN GUY

CHICAGO (AP)—Racial disturbances in a South Side district continued for the fourth consecutive night Thursday night as residents in a previously all-white neighborhood shouted protests over the presence of three Negro families.

Police said 41 persons, including 20 juveniles, were arrested as demonstrators refused to obey police orders to disperse. At least two persons, hit by stones, were injured.

Police sought for nearly three hours—until after midnight—to break up the demonstrations which centered in Morgan street between 56th and 57th streets.

Police have arrested more than 100 persons since the first outbreak on Monday night. Several were juveniles.

Thursday night a crowd of about 100 persons, mostly teenagers, moved toward the apartment where two of the Negro families moved this week. Police immediately blocked off the street.

Two police cars containing dogs pulled up at a nearby corner. Stones crashed through squad car windshields and two demonstrators, one with blood over his face, were pushed into a police wagon. Patrolmen dispersed the crowd.

Soon several squad cars raced to the all-Negro neighborhood two blocks south where several cars were seen with windshields broken by bricks and stones.

Traffic lights were turned off as police halted travel.

As police sought to quell the racial row in the area—the Englewood district—a public meeting of residents was held in the Englewood Police Station. It was adjourned after several white residents said they feared Negroes were trying to take over their community. A biracial committee held a closed meeting at the station in an attempt to reach a solution to the problem.

All porches within two blocks of the Negro families were crowded. One girl told a reporter, "We don't want to integrate." A woman, about 50, said she would use violence, if necessary, to remove Negro families.

Another said, "I'm all for civil rights, but I don't want to live next to 'em."

The first Negro family moved into an apartment in the area Monday. A second family moved into another building Tuesday and a third moved into the first apartment building Wednesday.

One of the Negro couples pledged to remain "as long as we have police protection outside." Reginald Williams, 25, his wife, Alice, 23, and their son, Gregory, 7, moved in Monday.

"We moved here from a flat because the rent was about $25 a month less," Williams said. "We didn't expect any trouble."

He said they have no affiliation with any civil rights organizations.

Racial trouble broke out on a new sector today.

A demonstration sponsored by the Congress of Racial Equality began at 74th St. and Lowe Ave. on the South Side at the site of construction of mobile classroom units for the Chicago Board of Education.

Police reported some of the participants laid down in the street but most stood.

The purpose was to block trucks, but excavation work at the site proceeded.

The Englewood police station reported about 25 persons had been arrested, brought in and charged with disorderly conduct.

CORE is protesting against the building of classrooms. It contends Negro pupils should be sent to predominantly white schools that have space rather than be taught in temporary quarters.

A spokesman for the Board of Education said it planned to use the temporary classrooms until a new school is built.

Southland Take $1 Million Month

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—With attendance and wagering both running well ahead of last year, the state's share of proceeds of greyhound racing at the Southland track in West Memphis may reach $1 million this year.

Revenue Department records show that attendance reached 195,461 and betting totaled $5,333,918 in the first 34 days of this year's 100-day season.

The 1962 figures were 172,109 and $4,600,660.

Arkansas collected $286,000 as its share of last year's racing proceeds.

Kennedy Going to Hyannis Port

LEAD NY RACIAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will spend the weekend with his family at Hyannis Port, Mass., the White House announced today.

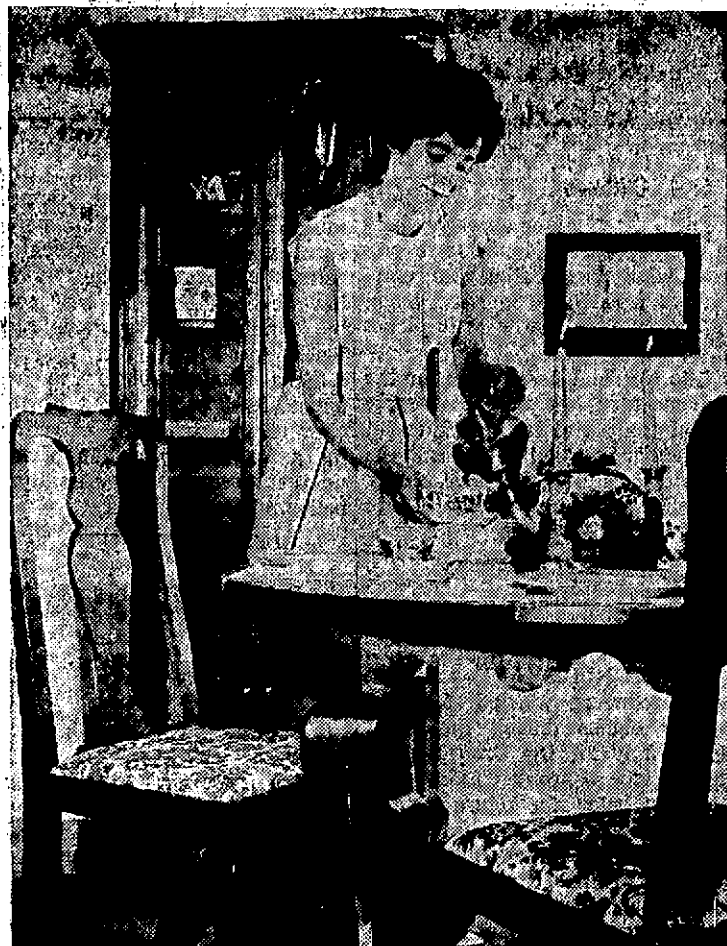

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said the President expects to leave the White House late Friday afternoon and to return Monday morning.

Straighter-line hairstyles are on the coiffure horizon. These are by John Christie of New York who prefers to lace or back brush the hair rather than tease it to give it fullness. The hair (left) is brought back off the forehead at the center section. A narrow barrette is slipped in place and the ends of the hair flipped up for saucy end curls. The sides are laced underneath for fullness. Simple and smooth is the style (right) where the hair is brushed from over the right temple slanting to the left. The back hair is brushed to the crown.

FUZZY FIGHTER—As if to demonstrate its all-weather capabilities, a new F-105F Thunderchief emerges on take-off from what appears to be a drenching, low-level rainstorm at Republic Aviation's field at Farmingdale, N.Y. The blurred, watery effect was caused by heat waves from the runway in 90-degree weather. Almost invisible to the naked eye, the miragelike phenomenon was captured by a high-speed sequence camera that was set to cover a routine take-off.

Distinctive marks of this new collection of reproductions of fine 18th century Bermuda antiques are visible in this picture. Note the smooth but high arched table apron and, in the background, a glass treasure chest which combines display space with cabinet storage.

CAN TWO WRONGS MAKE A RIGHT?
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am a woman in my middle years with a sick husband who is a constant source of worry. Two years ago in the course of business and work, I met and fell in love with a man who is my Rock of Gibraltar. He listens to my troubles and advises me in many ways. I suppose that is how we fell in love.

He lives alone in a hotel and his wife stays at their home in a nearby state. She refused to move when he took his present position, a very good one with our firm eight years ago.

From the little he says, she appears a selfish, domineering woman who thinks only of her own comfort. Friends and business associates have advised him to divorce her but he refuses, being a good church member and reluctant to stir up scandal. Please help me straighten out our lives as I love him dearly and live to do him only good. Please print this letter as soon as possible.

—Desperate Wife

Dear Desperate Wife: Please note that I have omitted the quotation marks around the word wife because that is exactly what you are. And the man you think you're in love with is a husband, and you're both married to other people. You and your friend are proving once again that the "middle years" are often the foolish years.

You two have confused a sympathetic ear with love—a common mistake. The first step that I suggest toward straightening out your lives is to reread your marriage vows. You've apparently conveniently forgotten the words, "In sickness and in health." Naturally a sick husband is "a constant source of worry."

So is a sick child. Does that give you the right to abandon one's obligations, and withdraw love at a time when most needed? Your primary duty now is to your sick husband, and if you were to turn your back on him the chances are that you would never again have a moment's peace.

As for the why's and wherefore's of your friend's geographical separation from his wife, I'd like to remind you that there are two sides to every situation of this kind, and you've heard only one. It suits you to think that she is "selfish and domineering" but such an impression may be entirely false.

You say that your friend is a good church member and refuses to get a divorce. If he really does more than give lip service to the teachings of his church, he knows in his heart that the course you and he have embarked on can

Will Halt Arms Sales to Africa

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations announced today it is banning by the end of 1963 the sale of all weapons and military equipment to South Africa because of that country's racial segregation policies.

The embargo was disclosed by U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson in a speech before the U.N. Security Council.

He spoke after Ghana's Alex Quaison-Sackey had denounced South Africa as an outlaw and asked the council to consider expelling it from the United Nations.

Stevenson told the council the U.S. already had banned the sale of military equipment that might be used by South Africa to enforce its racial apartheid policies and is now ready to make such a ban complete.

He said the ban could not become fully effective before the end of the year because of existing commitments, including the sale of air to air missiles and torpedoes for submarines.

Dear Helen: My brother and I are the victims, if you could call it that, of parents who never wanted to see us married because they needed our help on the farm. Now they are dead and here we are. I am a spinster of 39, he a bachelor of 43, still on the farm.

Ever since 1955 I have been going with a man six years older than I. He drops by once or twice a month through living only 18 miles away. His sister takes his car whenever she wants it.

He says he can't marry because of his folks. Yet he comes of a large family of brothers and sisters, any one of whom could easily help support the parents. Like us, they are all farmers. I have never been invited to their home so feel they don't want my boy friend to marry. Am I right? Should I wait? — Left At Home

Dear Left at Home: My answer to both your questions is "no." It's your boy friend himself, not his family, who objects to marrying you. If he has only been dropping in to see you once or twice a month for eight years and says he can't marry you, then he obviously isn't serious. As for your waiting, don't bother. A bachelor of 43 is likely to remain one. Broaden your horizon. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope for my leaflet "Travel and Work." It may open up a whole new, wide wonderful world.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

U.S. Dilemma May Last for Years

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's very vagueness about two of his constant headaches, France and Red China, one an ally and one an enemy, show the depths of an American dilemma which may last for years.

1. The Chinese Dilemma—What to expect when the Red Chinese have nuclear bombs, although they may make plenty of trouble before they do, and what to expect when the present generation of old-time leaders is gone.

2. The French Dilemma—How to get along now with President De Gaulle, in order to keep the Western Alliance together, and then what to expect when this old-timer is also gone.

Last Monday, a few days after the United States, Britain and Russia agreed to a limited nuclear test ban, De Gaulle said he would not join so long as they continue to produce nuclear arms. They didn't agree not to.

He also said he wanted no part of something else. This was Premier Khrushchev's suggestion of a nonaggression treaty between the Western partners and their opposite number, Russia and its European satellites.

Ever since Monday—and it is understood the orders came from the White House—the State Department has clammed up on the subject of De Gaulle, saying practically nothing about his obstructionism.

Reporters were told President Kennedy would do the talking at his news conference Thursday. He talked but in a very real sense said nothing, giving no indication this country has yet figured out how to get De Gaulle to play ball.

What he seemed to express was bafflement.

Was this country considering giving some of its nuclear secrets to De Gaulle, secrets which might make it unnecessary for him to test in order to persuade him not to? Kennedy glossed over this.

He said what was already known: That De Gaulle had turned down this country's offer of Polaris missiles, an offer the British accepted. He said this country had made some suggestions to De Gaulle about cooperation members of Local 739 or the

But even if the icy De Gaulle melted a bit, cooperated, and stopped being a problem, this country couldn't even guess at what might come when De Gaulle, now 72, is out of the picture.

The French government has been the most chaotic and unstable in Western Europe since the war. De Gaulle had to come out of retirement and take over the presidency to put it on its feet. That may be strictly temporary.

When he finally departs any one of a number of things may happen: More chaos, civil war, a dictatorship of the right or left.

The Red Chinese, breaking with Russia and determined to make their own nuclear weapons, not only refuse to join the test ban agreement but call the whole thing a fraud.

Kennedy said he thought it a menacing situation that (1) China's population, biggest in the world, is exploding, (2) it is almost surrounded by smaller and weaker nations, (3) it wants war to achieve world communism, and (4) in 10 years or so it may be a nuclear power.

Kennedy considers all these factors together a "potentially more dangerous situation than any we faced since the end of the war." So he doesn't know what to expect, now or later, but particularly later when China has nuclear weapons.

The original Chinese Communists, who began their lifelong campaign for the domination of China in the 1920s, are all old or elderly men now. They're dying out.

These were the fanatic revolutionaries who sacrificed everything for a dream. They've split with Khrushchev for even talking about getting along with the West.

Will their successors, now that the revolution has been accomplished and China taken, feel less like fanatics and more like managers and therefore, like Khrushchev, be more inclined to preserve their gains than risk them in a war?

Such a new generation of leaders might mean a less belligerent China. But nobody, including Kennedy, is betting on it. He didn't even mention it.

U of A Graduates to Study Abroad

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Dolly McAdams of West Memphis and Mary Kay Stevenson of Stuttgart have been selected by the State Department's Board of Foreign Scholarships to study abroad next year.

Miss McAdams will study French literature at the University of Lille in France. Miss Stevenson will study comparative literature at the University of Florence in Italy.

Both are University of Arkansas graduates.

Rainmaker Is Having Trouble

ROGERS, Ark. (AP)—Scattered thundershowers teased rainmaker Homer Berry in northwest Arkansas Thursday, but refused to drizzle into the area in which he had contracted to bring rain.

The thundershowers began about 10 miles south of Fayetteville and moved southward, but a blazing sun sent temperatures into the 90s in the drought-stricken Lowell area in southern Benton County.

The retired Air Force major began operating his "rain barrel" Monday under a verbal contract to bring 1.5 inches of rain within five days and "all the rain the ground will hold" in an indefinite period after that. He is to get $1,000 for each feat.

Seventeen Lowell-area farmers and three Springdale men have raised $1,250 so far, and if Berry brings the first rain, they apparently will raise more.

Berry says he sends silver iodide particles into the clouds by burning chemically-saturated coke in a brick-lined barrel mounted on the bed of a pickup truck.

Berry warned northwest Arkansas residents Wednesday not to plan any cookouts. "If you don't get wet tonight," he said, "you'll sure get wet tomorrow."

MGM Plans to Revive Grand Hotel

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After all these years, MGM is reported to be thinking about dusting off one of its old hit movies, "Grand Hotel" and adapting it for a television series. High time: The idea and variations on it is basic television and so widely used they are almost over-worked.

"Grand Hotel," based on Vicki Baum's novel, was a series of short stories, tied together by the fact that all characters were in some way connected with the hotel. Some two dozen television series today are really short stories, tied together by a few continuing characters or locations.

The medical shows—"Dr. Kildare," "Ben Casey" and "The Nurses"—use a hospital instead of a hotel, but the plot effect is the same. "Wagon Train" is a mobile hotel—each week a different story about somebody connected with the overland journey.

ABC is going to make certain there can be no hanky-panky in its forthcoming big-money quiz show, "100 Grand," the first since the dark days of the broadcasting scandal five years back.

The show puts an amateur expert on some subject against a professional authority. Show packagers are looking for the amateur contestants, while local Chambers of Commerce have been enlisted to find the professionals on the usual quiz show subjects of baseball, opera, war, movies, Lincoln and such.

The prime rig-proofing device is the rule that has the amateur and professional contestants dreaming up questions immediately before show time which each will immediately fire at the opponent. To win the top prize, $100,000, the amateur must defeat five professional authorities.

Chambers of Commerce are interested because a professional who defeats an amateur will win $10,000, to go to his community for some civic improvement.

President Gives Tydings a Boost

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—President Kennedy's dinner visit Thursday night with Joseph D. Tydings, U.S. attorney for Maryland, was regarded in political circles as a move to boost the stock of the prosecutor.

A White House aide said the visit was "purely social" but Tydings, 35, has been mentioned prominently as a candidate next year for the U.S. Senate seat of Republican Glenn Beall.

Earlier Thursday, Kennedy visited the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., where he welcomed a plebe class of 1,245 men.

"I can think of no more rewarding a career," Kennedy told the plebes.

Cigarette Puts Man in Hospital

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—A cigarette dropped accidentally put a 30-year-old Arkansas man in a hospital today and destroyed his car.

State Police in Liberty, N.Y., said Ronald Dean of 1204 E. 9th St., Texarkana, pulled off to the side of the road an d struck a match to look for a cigarette he had dropped. There was an open gasoline can next to him.

Flames suddenly shot through the car, enveloping Dean. Police said

Airline Head Asks First Things First
By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines, today urged a "first-things-first" approach to building of a United States supersonic air transport.
In a rare news conference, Smith, a dominant figure in the airlines business, said the U.S. program should focus on speedy construction of a prototype aircraft in at least the 1,500-mile-an-hour to 1,700 m.p.h. range.
"I'm afraid we're going to spend so much time thinking about the problems of 1969-70-71 that we're not going to get the problems of 1963 solved," he said.
"Let's concentrate on getting a prototype—Congress will put up $300 million quicker than $700 million or $1 billion."
Early in June, President Kennedy committed the government to support of a supersonic passenger plane, the type that could cross the Atlantic Ocean in 2½ hours to 3 hours as against the 7 hours required by present-day jets.
The President acted a day after Pan American World Airways announced plans to buy six supersonic planes now under development jointly by Britain and France.
Since then, Continental Airlines entered into a somewhat similar option-type agreement to buy three of the British-French Concorde, which are expected to fly around 1,500 miles an hour.
Smith's action was taken as an effort to prod the government to quicken its deliberations on exactly how to proceed.
Smith said the nation's prestige was involved in the supersonic race.

Truck Weight Bill Back in Limelight
PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—The truck weight bill which stirred controversy in the 1963 legislature was discussed again Thursday night when Gov. Orval E. Faubus met with 35 southeast Arkansas county judges and legislators.
The legislators told of a need for an axle weight tolerance for trucks carrying such products as logs, lumber and pulp wood. The law provides for an absolute weight limit of 18,000 pounds on rear axles and allows no tolerance.
The legislators said that during transportation the loads of trucks carrying the wood products could shift, taking weight off one axle and overloading another. They asked that some allowance be made for the shift.
Faubus said he would discuss the problem with the Highway Commission. He added that he was in favor of changing the law to permit an axle tolerance if it did not result in trucks exceeding the total licensed weight on all axles.
State Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff announced a plan to establish a surplus commodities warehouse in Pine Bluff.
Commodities now are stored in a single warehouse in Little Rock. Cleveland County Rep. Raymond Mays said the warehouse would save county judges in southeast Arkansas considerable trucking expense for commodities.
Faubus pointed out that the state pays for distribution and storage of the commodities while the federal government pays freight costs.

SPUNK
By HOWARD R. MARSH
Harvey didn't like his stepfather. He didn't like the way the old man treated his mother. And it was time to make Ma understand that she had to stand up for her rights, if she was ever to have any.
Ma was busy churning, but she was always busy doing something and Harvey decided that now was as good a time as any to tell her what should be done.
"I want to tell you something about the old man, Ma," he said. "It ain't your place to talk about him," she replied.
"He's an old tightwad and a skinkflint, even if he is my stepfather."
"Harvey!" The gaunt woman dropped a churn handle and leveled her startled glance accusingly at her son.
"He is and you know it!" the boy insisted.
The woman wiped the perspiration from her face with her faded apron. "I guess it's just because you're 15 and don't know no better'n to say such things, Harvey. Maybe it's the Avery blood, sort of wild-like."
"Grandpa had some spirit, that's what. You've lost all your spirit. Maybe I got a little left—in spite of my stepfather."
"Harvey, please."
"It ain't myself I'm kicking about, Ma, it's you." He raised his eyes defiantly. "Ma, where is that new dress you was going to get for summer? Where's that new hat? Ma, you ain't had nothing new as long as I can remember."
"Your stepfather needed the money for the farm."
"He did, huh? Why, he's putting money in the bank every week. Your butter and egg money, too, that of rights ought—"
"He's just saving for our old age, Harvey."
"A lot of good that'll do you," the adolescent voice cracked shrilly. "Why, Ma, you won't have no old age. The old man's killing you. You do more work than he does—"
The woman resumed her churning.
The boy's face was red, his fists clenched. "There ain't no man treats his wife like he treats you, Ma. You're his chore woman."
"Now, Harvey."
The boy's voice softened. "Ma, I can remember when you was real pretty. Not that you ain't yet," he added hurriedly as he saw his mother's hand pass quickly to her eyes. "You are. But you ain't got the chance to stay that way like the others have. You don't have no clothes to show you off, and you don't have no fun. He won't even take you to town."
"I ain't pretty, Harvey. I know I ain't. But I don't care."
"Yes you do. I can tell. Listen, Ma. He's going to town in the morning. Get up some spunk and tell him he has to take you. Tell him you're going to spend your butter money on yourself—"
"Oh, Harvey, if I only could!"
"You gotta." Then his tone became pleading. "Try it just once. Please, Ma. Remember your pap and the spunk he had."
The tired back stiffened. "Harv, I'll do it!"
Harvey remained in bed later than usual the next morning because of his stepfather's planned trip into town. To sleep late was an infrequent and unusual pleasure. He dozed intermittently, but was awakened at last by his mother's shrill voice. He scarcely recognized the tense, angry outpouring of words. He sprang to the edge of the bed, listening. A satisfied smile lit his face.
"You old skinkflint! You old miser! I work till my back's like to break and you never do nothing for me. Ain't I slaved for you for years? What do I get out of it? Not even a ribbon. I'm going to town and spend whatever I want to. I'll buy that purple waist I saw last year, if it ain't sold yet."
"I'll have some new kettles and a black sash and glib curtain rods. You can't squeeze me dry any longer. Just try it and see what'll happen. I'll leave you!"
Harvey heard his mother tramping up and down the back porch, her feet beating time to her angry words. He pulled on his trousers. "At last," he breathed happily. "The Avery spunk! After all these years! And the old tyrant does— dare say a word!" he added gleefully.
He went down to the back porch ready to aid his mother if necessary.
"Where's the old man?" he asked, stopping short.
His mother turned toward him. Her head dropped. She picked up her pining knife and a pan of potatoes. "He went to town two hours ago," she said.

And The Angel

...of Revelations said: "Gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe." How beautiful! How far-reaching is this challenge! It is up to us. Throughout the Bible the grape and the vine hold great spiritual meaning. They emphasize the close union between Christ and His church. We judge the vine from the fruit it bears. St. John warned us in the first place, that the branch cannot bear fruit, except it abide in the Lord. In a spiritual sense, man makes his own harvest. His reaping is strictly in accordance with how well he has taken care of the vineyard, how thoroughly he has supported the charities of the Lord, and how genuinely he has served God.
